

Ed Lotter

Ed Lotter's specialties include trombone, percussion and backup vocals. Ed began playing the trombone at age nine and made his professional debut at age 16 with a band called "City Limits" that evolved into "Split Rhythm", where Ed was one of the catalysts in its success. Ed moved to Minneapolis for a position with the Boyd Hunt Enterprises Talent Pool. While there, he played with different combinations of musicians, both on the road and in the recording studio. He has returned to Michiana's music scene and is stronger and better than ever.
